Macao, 7th June, 1905. [641]BRITISH SAILORS IN THE AMERICAN NAVY.The Naval correspondent of the Fall Mail Gazette writes: "Until quite recent years—the practice may obtain even now—whenever a British warship touched at an American port armed sentries were mounted at the gangways, and all boats running to the shore were manned by petty officers, in place of seamen. The reason for this was that America had a sort of magnetic attraction for blue jackets. Once they set eyes on the Land of the Dollar many of them were very unwilling to leave it. Despite all precautions, hardly a ship put to sea after a few days' stay in an American port without a big R (which signifies "run," i.e., deserter) having to be written behind the names of some of her crew. Even the petty officers though chosen for boat manning because their stake in the service was greater than that of the seamen, occasionally succumbed to the fascination of the States, and went up country to seek fortune instead of returning to their ship. That some of the men who deserted from British men-of-war afterwards took service in the American Navy is undoubted, and this for reasons into which it is unnecessary to enter here. Jack has always looked upon the American Navy as distinctly better than our own from a lower-deck point of view, and many of the men recently turned out of the British fleet have crossed the Atlantic with a view to taking service under the Stars and Stripes.DOCKYARD TRAINING FOR PRIVATE YARDS.
Some of the younger men discharged from our dockyards make no secret of the fact that they contemplate doing the same thing. No doubt they will be welcomed in any American shipyard, for such of them as are artisans and dockyard trained are highly skilled workmen.
For years past there has existed in the Royal dockyards an excellent system of secondary education. Men who have passed through these schools are now filling important posts in many of our large private firms. They sought other fields because Government service offers such poor prospects. The Admiralty must know this well enough, yet seem convinced to continue spending public money on training smart boys to become valuable servants to somebody else, instead of to the department which provides their education and ought to have the benefit of their service.

PASSING OF TANJONG PAGAR.

O blameless Tanjong Pagar Dock,
The victim of expropriation,
You have indeed received a knock
From the most highly favoured nation.
'Tis scarcely fair to play such pranks
With Companies who merit thanks.When certain details came to light,
Perhaps demanding interference,
The Legislative Council might
Have exercised a wise forbearance,
Permitting you to show your hand,
And with advancing times expand.Whereas an epoch-making course
Has been by Government adopted,
Crushing by autocratic force
A power that would not be co-opted.
We live, no doubt, in strenuous days,
But clemency more often pays.Your sterling worth in dollar cents—
That was the gist of each polemic—
Was figured out by arguments
More than a trifle academic.
Compulsorily purchased shares
Form no excuse for splitting hairs.And now the value of your work Lies on the knees of arbitration:
While shareholders in corners lurk,
And talk of wholesale decimation.
For few are on the other tack,
Or pat themselves upon the back.Your efforts to keep pace with time
Were, in the past, a shade belated.
But have you wrought so great a crime,
That you are thus expropriated?
Accept the tribute of a sigh
From one who weeps to see you die.

SWISS FUNERAL CUSTOMS.

The people of Switzerland have a very peculiar custom which they observe at the time of a funeral. When a person dies the family has a black-edged announcement put in the papers, telling of the death of the person and asking for sympathy. They state that the "mourning urn" will be exhibited at a certain hour on a special day. Then on this day mentioned in the notice a little black table covered with a black cloth is placed in front of the house where the person died. On this black table is placed a black jar; then all the friends and acquaintances of the family go by the house that day and drop into this black jar a small black-bordered visiting card. Sometimes they write a few words of sympathy on the card. It is generally on the day of the funeral that this table is set out in front of the house. Another peculiarity of the Swiss funeral is that only men go to the churchyard, and they usually walk. The body is taken to the grave in a hearse, the men following it.

HONGKONG, FRIDAY, JULY 28, 1905.

THE SEAMEN'S INSTITUTE.

When the Seamen's Institute on the Praya East was opened nearly three months ago there was considerable doubt in the minds of those who organised the undertaking as to whether it would pay expenses. Indeed so little faith had they in the success of the Institute at the outset that it was agreed to pay the rent of the buildings out of the capital fund; if necessary, in order that it might have a fair chance. It was known and understood by all who have an interest in the merchant shipping men that the demand for an institute to which the seamen might enter feeling that they were in their own home and habitation was urgent; but whether it would pay was another question. An earlier institute on somewhat similar lines had to be closed for lack of support. But the indefatigable friends of the merchant sailors—among whom the Rev. J. H. France occupies the leading place—determined that come what might they would give the scheme another trial. They did so and a most gratifying result has to be recorded. Instead of having to draw upon the capital fund, the Committee in charge of the new Seamen's Institute have actually been able to lay a trifle past for a rainy day. That fact shows conclusively that the management of the Institute has been excellent; but it also shows that the new Institute is, in hackneyed parlance, meeting a felt want. At the opening of the Institute in the early days of May last we referred to the lack of places of a decent character open to the ordinary seaman. There is, of course, the Sailors and Soldiers Institute in Arsenal Street, but that is to all intents and purposes a service affair. The merchant shipping man has really no claim to its generosity—that is to say, he cannot claim a bed there if he wants it. Presumably he may attend the religious meetings, but he is in the position of one who has no locus standi. There is the Kowloon Institute, where only four or five beds are available and they are usually occupied. Then there is the Sailors' Home, which is a boarding house pure and simple, and does not take in what we may describe as transient guests. Commander William Dawson, R.N., writing to us from the Missions to Seamen Office, in London, remarked in the course of a letter, which we published yesterday, that he had often known sailors' rights and privileges to be robbed in the most barefaced manner, and as one of the trustees of the Kowloon Institute he protested against any such attempt being allowed to pass in respect of that Institute. He also commented on the allegation we made that at the Sailors and Soldiers Institute the merchant seamen is treated as a civilian. Well these are the facts, that the Sailors and Soldiers Institute is not meant for the merchant shipping man. Ex gratia he may be admitted, but it is a pure act of condescension. At the Kowloon Institute he may enjoy a concert once a week. It is true, and the fact should be stated, that there are meetings on three other nights and of course from early morning till late in the evening the reading room and billiard table are open to the sailors. But if he wants any really innocent and exhilarating pleasure in places on this side of the water to which he has an inalienable right of admission, to which he may say to himself—"This is my institution and so long as I remain respectable no one can remove me from it" he has to travel a long way to find it. We take it that the new Seamen's Institute was designed to meet such a want. But prior to its opening, the seaman was driven to the shady public house and the numerous haunts of vice which exist in Hongkong for the special benefit of Jack ashore. If it happened that he "raised his wrist" once too often he found himself before the Magistrate and he might think himself lucky if he got off with fourteen days' imprisonment. If he was homeless and without a ship still he was liable to find himself before the Magistrate, as witness the poor fellows who were found wandering in the hills around Happy Valley the other day, half-dead through starvation. Without doubt Hongkong is the hardest place in the East for the sailor without a ship. It is hard enough for landmen, but the sailor who knows no trade and has probably no recommendations is almost certain to go under. It is all the more necessary then that his friends should extend a helping hand to him. As a rule he is no angel; he is given to sporadic attempts to have a good time; he is subjected to such discipline while at sea that he is liable to temporary fits of aberration when he gets ashore. But, withal, there is a knack in managing him, and apparently those in charge of the new Seamen's Institute have learned the art. He has his rights there, and he is treated as a man, not ordered higher and thither like an automaton. Commander Dawson's wish that the sailor who finds himself temporarily in Hongkong may enjoy to the full all the rights and privileges to which he is entitled will be echoed by every one who has the slightest interest in the seafaring life. Unfortunately, people in Hongkong have a habit of talking more than performing. Perhaps the strong remarks of Commander Dawson will be taken to heart, and as time passes the sailor and the seaman—for there seems to be a distinction between the two although to a landsman it is a distinction with no difference—will find his lot ashore sensibly improved and his status perceptibly raised in the eyes of the general public.

THE CHINESE BOYCOTT.

The editorial comments in our issue of last evening on the question of the Chinese boycott appear to have raised some misconception as to the purport which the article was intended to convey. It has been represented to us that the spirit and tone of the article gave room for the assumption that the attitude of this journal is inimicable to the stand the Chinese have taken up in regard to the Exclusion Treaty which no right-thinking individual can impartially fail to endorse. On several occasions when we have dealt with the question we have upheld the admirable feeling of the Chinese in opposing the measure so derogatory to the general and personal interest of their nationals, and far is it from our mind that at this stage, when better counsel appears to be prevailing with the United States Government, that we should lend ourselves as the exponent of any party against the best interests of the Chinese people. We admire their spirit of national pride, and that it may permeate the higher and lower orders of the people throughout the length and breadth of the country is the hope of every well-wisher of China's teeming millions, whose industry, sobriety and thrift merit every consideration from the Powers in all their legislation calculated to affect the people of the Middle Kingdom.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

THE Bandmann Opera Company opened a short season at the Theatre Royal, last evening.

MR. R. Braun, the genial harbour master of Kowloon, is expected to return to the West River port from Japan early next month.

THE island which began to appear to the south of Japan in November last, and rose to a height of 480 ft., is now only 10 ft. above the sea, and is gradually disappearing.

A WIRE from Hanoi, printed in the home papers, says that negotiations have been in progress for some time with a French firm at Hainan for assistance in raising the French cruiser Sully. Admiral de Jonquieres is to replace Admiral Bayle in Alung Bay.

DURING a heavy squall at Samshui last Friday the British gunboat Moorehead dragged her moorings and drifted against the current, on to Messrs. Butterfield & Swire's hulk which was at anchor in the river. No damage was done, and within a few minutes the gunboat was back again at her old moorings.

THE marriage arranged between Ewen Allan, eldest son of Sir Ewen Cameron, K.C.M.G., and Lady Cameron, and Rachel Margaret, elder daughter of the late Alexander Geddes, of Barmore, Huilly, Aberdeenshire, and of Mrs. Geddes, was to have taken place on July 22 in the Parish Church of Glass, Aberdeenshire.

THE visit of the Prince and Princess Arisugawa has revealed that there is a very much larger Japanese colony in London than most people probably imagine. According to one authority there are more than 300 Japanese men (without counting women) pursuing various businesses in London, quite a number of whom are professional wrestlers.

YUEN To, whose extradition was sought by the Chinese authorities for being concerned in an armed robbery in Chinese territory in July of last year, was committed to Victoria Gaol for fifteen days, during which he will be at liberty to apply for a writ of habeas corpus, failing which at the expiration of that period he will be handed over to the Chinese authorities.

It will be remembered that last Saturday, as the result of a collision between the steam launch Bailey, and the cutter of the U.S.S. Collas, in which an American sailor nearly lost his life, the certificate of the coxswain of the Bailey was suspended for two months. He was sent to the launch to get his certificate, but did not do so, and the following day was found by P. C. Douglas Foley, who rescued the sailor—in charge of the Bailey, which he was steering at the time.—Mr. Murphy, of Messrs. W. S. Bailey and Co. told the Magistrate this morning that he was unaware the defendant was on the launch, as, on account of his certificate being suspended, he had engaged a new coxswain.—His Worship fined the defendant $15 or one month.

NEGOTIATIONS are still proceeding between the Government of India and Mr. Tang, the Chinese plenipotentiary for Tibet affairs, who still remains in Calcutta. It is hoped that some final result may be arrived at before the Government leave Simla.

We have received a visit from Mr. Hal. George, representing Fitz-Gerald Bros. circus and menagerie, which is at present performing in Singapore. He informs us that the circus is coming on to Hongkong and will open a season about the second week in August.

At noon to-day a woman reported to the Harbour authorities that her cargo boat, laden with coal, bumped on to the blades of the propeller of the German s.s. Borneo, lying at the Kowloon wharf, and sustained a hole in her bottom, which caused her to sink on the spot.

THE Medical Council of Russia has forbidden the importation of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills into that country on the ground that some specimens (alleged to be of the proprietary to be either forged or made up from the German prescription), contained 0.10 per cent of arsenic.

THIS marriage arranged between Sir Alexander Swettenham, Governor of Jamaica, and Mary Emily, elder daughter of Mr. R. P. Copeland, D.L., Kibblesome Hall, Stone, Staffordshire, and granddaughter of the late Mr. W. T. Copeland, D.L., M.P., will take place on Aug. 30 at Kingston, Jamaica.

THE Royal Humane Society has awarded a silver medal to Eusebio Novo, Jascar in the Peninsula and Oriental Coy's s.s. Moldavia for gallantly jumping overboard in the shark-infested sea at the Cape to the deliverance of an Australian, and rescuing a comrade, who had fallen from the vessel.

FROM The Yellow Dragon for July we learn that on the 30th June there were 1,278 names on the annual roll of Queen's College, or 57 less than in the first half of the previous year. Combined with the fact that the monthly attendances are better than last year, this is evidence of a further improvement in regularity of attendance.

It is reported that as the s.s. Tai-ping, which has been in the harbour for several months past, got under way yesterday to proceed to Shanghai, it was discovered that she was so encumbered with barnacles that they had penetrated to the engine-room, blocking up the main inlet. The ship was at once taken over and anchored in Junk Bay, preparatory to going into dock where she will have her bottom cleaned and the pipes cleared.

FOLLOWING is the programme of music to be performed by the Band of the 2nd Bat. (Royal West Kent Regt.) on the New Parade Ground, on Monday next, from 5 to 6.30 p.m.:

REFERENCE is occasionally made to the insalubrious condition of the city, but a strenuous effort was made by a couple of cones to-day to remove that reproach, from the vicinity of Beaconsfield Arcade at any rate. They were carrying a fifty-gallon barrel of Jeyes' Fluid up the steps towards the Sanitary Board office when the barrel was allowed to drop. The contents wandered down the stairs like a miniature Niagara and for some time afterwards it might have been thought an infirmity for the incurables existed there. But whatever else could be said it was certainly beyond question that the place had been thoroughly disinfected for a good many days to come. It was the irony of fortune that the rain fell in buckets shortly afterwards.

THIS morning Mr. John Hays appeared before Mr. Hazeldan to prosecute a large number of residents at Wongneichong for maintaining insalubrious premises and disobeying the order of Government to quit the said premises. Mr. Otto Kong Sing appeared for the defendants, and said that while he pleaded guilty on behalf of his clients he must point out to his Worship that they had lived in the houses for a large number of years, and it was a difficult matter for so many people to find other quarters at once. He would ask for an extension of time to enable the defendants to find suitable quarters. Mr. Hays said he did not know whether Government would consent to such extension. Mr. Otto Kong Sing then asked for a short adjournment, in order that the matter might be laid before Government. Mr. Hays consented to this, and said he would at once communicate with the Government and the case was adjourned till Wednesday next.

THE WEATHER.

The following report is from Mr. F. G. Figg, First Assistant of the Hongkong Observatory:—On the 28th 12.20 p. The barometer has risen in S. China, particularly over the S.E. coast. After passing near Poochow yesterday afternoon, the depression has apparently continued to move Northwards. Fresh S. and S.W. winds may be expected in the Formosa Channel and the N. part of the China Sea. Forecast.—Moderate S.W. to S. winds; equal, thundershowers. Returns from the North are lacking this morning. Telegraphic communication between the Observatory and Hongkong is interrupted.

MACAO PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS.

PROPOSED RECLAMATION.

For several years past the subject of the reclamation of the foreshore from the Boa Vista Hotel to the Barra Fort in the inner harbour at Macao engaged public attention from time to time. Repeatedly our Macao correspondent urged the expediency in the interest of the public health no less than to the benefit of the public exchequer, that the scheme should be carried into execution. During the administration of a former Governor, His Excellency Senhor José Hortia e Costa, the project was not only considered but elaborated in its entirety by the Director of Public Works, Mr. A. Abreu Nunes, and by the Executive Council of Government strongly recommended for adoption by the Central Government in Lisbon. When the project and the report reached Portugal it received the same fate that many of its predecessors had done. It was shelved. It appears now that, thanks to the energy of the present head of the Executive, Senhor Montenegro, the reclamation scheme has not only been revived, but it is very shortly to be put into execution. We are informed on the best authority that a commencement will be made with the works in about a fortnight's time.

The long length of foreshore to be reclaimed includes all that portion from the present end of Praia Grande at the foot of the hill, where stands the Boa Vista Hotel, right along as far as the western extremity of Macao in Barra Fort. The work should not be difficult of accomplishment. The water is shallow within the boundaries of the proposed reclamation. An important consideration is that earth for filling is obtainable within easy reach of the sea by cutting down the hill at the back of the hotel and removing the little insanitary district inhabited by the people supplying the labour for the cracker factory in Tanque Malmo.

When completed this reclamation will afford a continuous spacious esplanade from the Public Gardens at the one end to the Barra Fort at the other. It will add considerably to the limited building area along the waterfront in Macao, and some excellent residential sites will be available with frontage to the sea. This important public work is probably one of the most extensive that will be undertaken by the Portuguese Government, and it remains to be seen how long it will be hurried on to completion, once a start is made. Macao has earned an unenviable notoriety for dilatoriness in its public enterprises in the past. It has generally relegated to the Greek Kalends works of public utility and pressing urgency, as witness the harbour dredging scheme. But with the projected reclamation we have reason to believe that the Administration is in real earnest, and a public undertaking of no small magnitude for Macao may be completed sooner than most people will generally concede for that colony.

HONGKONG SMALL DEBT COURT.

There was comparatively little of interest at the Hongkong Small Debt Court to-day. His Honour Mr. A. C. Wise, Puisne Judge presided, and there was the usual crowded attendance of lawyers and litigants. Most of the cases were postponed till some day next week.

DOUBLE OR QUITS. One of the cases was that in which Chinese cook sued his master S. M. Gidley for $12.80 being wages for the month of June. Last week the case was adjourned in order that the defendant might bring a cross-action, suing his former servant for leaving without notice.

"Have you served him with a summons now?" asked the judge. "No," said Mr. Gidley. "I couldn't find him."

"Well, he's in Court now. The bailiff can serve him here."

To the amazement of the cook, he was presented with a piece of foolscap containing a claim, for $12 odd for leaving without notice. The spectators in Court, not being the victims, laughed. The judge asked the cook what he had to say.

"I simply asked him for my wages and he kicked me out."

S. M. Gidley entered the box and was asked "Why did the cook leave?"

"Because he said his father was dead and he wanted to go to see him."

Did you strike him?—No.

Then the cook's story was heard.

Did he strike you?—Yes, he slapped me twice.

What about your father being dead?—I never spoke about my father being dead, I only asked for my wages.

Judgment was given for the plaintiff with costs in each action.

Colloquially speaking they were quits, but the cook is still wondering how it happened.

A HINT TO LAWYERS.

A case in which negligence is alleged as the ground of a claim was submitted.

His Lordship said that he did not know whether it was on the rules and regulations, but there was another process which might be adopted in such cases. They could apply the rules of the Admiralty law. It was a very simple procedure and he thought it might be considered by the lawyers in Court.

A GENIAL DEFENDANT.

One lady, who was the defendant in an action, heard her name called and marched up smiling to face his Lordship. "Your case is postponed," she bowed and smiled again.

"Come back on Tuesday," his Lordship said. She curtseyed. "And bring all your witnesses." She left the Court smiling.

WANTED HIS COSTS.

There was an action on the list in which two Chinamen were concerned. The sum in dispute was stated to be $50.70. The plaintiff was represented by a lawyer, who calmly observed—"We've received $100 on account."

"Then I'll give you judgment for $50.70 and costs," said His Lordship rapidly turning to the next case.

"But I wanted judgment for $50.70 and costs."

"You got $100 on account, didn't you?"

"Yes, but the expenses, my Lord?"

"On that will be all right! Judgment for $50.70 and costs on the other scale."

The lawyer looked pleased and his brethren of the robe smiled audibly.

APPLICATION IN BANKRUPTCY.

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION.

The Chief Justice, Sir Francis Piggott, heard an important application under a bankruptcy petition to-day. The trustee in bankruptcy claimed the return of two sums of money amounting altogether to $8,000 which had been paid out of Court from an estate which, immediately afterwards, was the subject of a bankruptcy petition.

Mr. H. E. Pollock, K.C., instructed by Mr. F. X. d'Almada e Castro, appeared for the trustee in bankruptcy; Mr. H. F. Calthrop, instructed by Mr. Bailey of Messrs. Johnson, Stokes and Master, represented the respondents.

The application arose over certain facts which were stated in an affidavit filed by Mr. d'Almada, in the course of which it was stated that on the 5th April last, on instructions from a creditor, he filed a bankruptcy petition against the Li Fung Bank carrying on business at 63 Bonham Strand. On the 6th April, application was made for service of the petition. On the 7th the acting Chief Justice, Sir Henry S. Berkeley, made an order for substituted service of the petition.

Mr. d'Almada was originally the solicitor for a creditor called Wang Chan Dy, who presented a bankruptcy petition against the debtors of the Li Fung Bank. The matter came before his Lordship as to the application for substitution of the service and that petition was granted. The Fuk On Insurance Company at that time was in this position it had obtained judgment against the Li Fung Bank. They proceeded very expeditiously and obtained garnishee against Wo Kee Hing in respect of $1,000 and against Tan Fong Yue in respect of $5,000. These people, who had garnished in this matter, paid $3,000 and $5,000 respectively into Court on the 6th April. Then on the 7th April they immediately—or shortly after the hearing of Mr. d'Almada's application for substituted service—applied for payment of those sums which had been paid into Court. Mr. d'Almada said "You cannot get this money because there is this bankruptcy petition against the Li Fung Bank." In mentioning that to the representatives of the Fuk On Company, Mr. d'Almada when he was giving notice to Mr. Bailey was acting in his official position as representative for the trustee in bankruptcy. The important point was—said Mr. Pollock, in presenting the case to the Chief Justice—that notice was given to Mr. Bailey of Johnson, Stokes and Master, the solicitors for the Fuk On, of this petition, before the Court made the order that these two sums of money should be paid out.

On the following morning, the 8th of April, these sums of money were paid out of Court. The point of the trustee in bankruptcy was this: Inasmuch as the Fuk On Company did not complete their attachment of these two sums of money by actual receipt of the same until after they had received from their solicitors notice of a bankruptcy petition, Mr. Wakeman as Trustee in Bankruptcy was entitled to come before this Court and to ask his Lordship that these sums of money should be paid by the Fuk On Company to him as trustee for the general benefit of the creditors.

The Chief Justice—I don't quite follow you. You say notice was given to the judge who made the order.

Mr. Pollock—That was informal.

The Chief Justice—So it does not come as an appeal to the Court.

Mr. Pollock—Not at all. This is a separate application in bankruptcy. They contended, he continued, that if the creditor before actual receipt of the money had received notice of the presentation of a bankruptcy petition, or if in fact there was a receiving order, the creditor was not entitled to obtain the benefit of that execution.

Mr. Calthrop said the money had been paid into Court by the garnishees, and it was only upon their application to have it paid out that they heard of a petition in bankruptcy being presented.

His Lordship—Was it afterwards or before? Mr. Calthrop—It was heard in Chambers. The learned acting Chief Justice had this notice before him at the time.

His Lordship—It was immaterial to him. He could not have refused the order as he was not acting under the Bankruptcy Ordinance.

Mr. Calthrop—Oh yes, he could. When he knew there had been a petition in bankruptcy he could have refused.

His Lordship—It was not a case of bankruptcy.

Mr. Calthrop—No, but he might have known what was coming on. It is a principle of law that money which has been paid out under a order of the Court cannot be recovered back.

His Lordship—Where did you get that from? Mr. Calthrop said it was Murray & Hamilton.

His Lordship—Give me a quotation. Mr. Calthrop—The heading is—"Where money has been paid by the plaintiff to the defendant under the compulsion of legal process which it is afterwards discovered not to be due the plaintiff cannot recover it back on an action for money received."

His Lordship—That is a very different proposition from this.

Mr. Calthrop proceeded to argue that other proceedings should have been taken for the return of this money. As long as the money had been paid out under an order it could not be recalled.

His Lordship remarked in the course of argument—What I cannot understand is why there has been so much delay.

Mr. Pollock said the opinion of counsel had to be taken, and after all there had not been such a very long time wasted.

His Lordship—It is some months, three months now, since the order was made.

Mr. Calthrop proceeded to cite authorities on the subject of his contentions.

Judgment was reserved.

TELEGRAMS.

[Official.]

OPERATIONS IN SAGHALIEN

IMPORTANT CAPTURES.

Mr. M. Noma, Consul for Japan, has kindly forwarded to us the following telegrams:—

Tokio, 28th July, 12.10 a.m.

The Saghalien army reports that at 1 p.m. on the 24th inst., one detachment drove the enemy near First Alcova, and occupied the line extending from Polowinka to Second Alcova. The enemy in that direction consisted of one infantry battalion, some volunteers and about eight field guns. The enemy fled in disorder towards Lonikov.

Previous to this engagement another detachment under cover of the destroyers was sent to the pier of Alexandrov which the enemy was trying to burn. That detachment succeeded in taking possession of the pier unburnt and repulsing the enemy by repeated attacks.

Mugati was also occupied by our troops who drove the enemy in co-operation with torpedoes.

At 3 p.m. one detachment occupied Third Alcova, while another advanced towards Alexandrov. The latter detachment defeating the enemy succeeded in occupying the town of Alexandrov at 7.15 p.m. The enemy continued resistance from the redoubt east of the town and also from the heights north-east of the town.

At dawn on the 25th instant we resumed an attack and pressed the enemy up to Novomichailovskoye. On the same day Done fell into our hands. Pone and Alexandrov escaped from conflagration. We captured 200 prisoners.

Tokio, July 27, 2.5 p.m.

The Imperial Headquarters report that our Saghalien Army began landing near Alcova, at 9 a.m., on the 24th instant, without much opposition.

Admiral Kataoka, commanding the squadron which was despatched to the North, reports that the squadron left the base as prearranged, conveying the military transports.

The previously advanced detachment, under Admiral Dewa, reconnoitred the coast in dragging operations as predetermined, landing at a place near Alexandrovsk. The transports are conveyed landward as the dragging operations are in progress. The marines landed without resistance and occupied the points necessary for landing afterwards.

As the landing of the troops commenced the marines returned aboard.

The enemy burned Numinia and set fire to Alcova, but Alexandrovsk is unburned.

Now the Japanese flags are flying over the Governor's office at Alexandrovsk, and on the houses in the town.

No damage was sustained by our ships or by our crews.

The Prospects of Peace.

LONDON, 26th July.

M. Sato, M. Komura's spokesman, interviewed in New York, said he was confident that peace would be successfully negotiated. The Japanese will be guided by moderation and no excessive demands will be made; as the war was costing Japan a million dollars a day, there was a feeling that there ought to be an indemnity. An armistice will probably be the first move in the negotiations.

Later.

M. de Witte has sailed for New York. President Roosevelt will receive M. Komura, informally, on Friday.

The Fourth Test Match.

England beat Australia by an innings and 30 runs.

THE RULE OF THE ROAD.

Before the Hon. Captain L. A. W. Barras-Lawrence, R.N., Marine Magistrate, P.C. Norman, Water Police, charged Chan Yau, master of the steam launch Standard, with unlawfully failing to observe the rule of the road laid down by His Majesty's Order in Council, in Victoria Harbour, on the 24th inst.—F. R. Norman said: At 2 p.m. on the 24th July, 1905, I was on duty by Messrs. Butterfield & Swire's buoy in the central fairway. I noticed the steam launch Ping Po coming from Yau-mat towards the Southern fairway at the same time the Standard was approaching from east to west, the Standard being on the port side of the Ping Po. The Standard held her course, and compelled the Ping Po to alter her course some 10° to starboard. Had the Ping Po not done so there would have been a collision of a certainty. The Ping Po afterwards passed under the stern of the Standard. The defendant was not at the wheel of the Standard.

To the Court: I was some 200 to 300 yards distant and could see very plainly what happened.

Chan Yau, master of the steam launch Standard, said: I was down below. One of the crew was at the wheel, but I was at the wheel when we passed the Ping Po. By models defendant demonstrated that he did not give way to the Ping Po, which he should have done.

Defendant was fined $5 and cautioned to be more careful in future.

ALLEGED MURDER.

SUSPECT IDENTIFIED BY PRIEST.

Remanded from yesterday, the case in which Cheung Fat is charged with murder under circumstances already recorded in these columns was resumed before Mr. F. A. Hazeland this afternoon.

The foreman in the shipyard at Quarry Bay spoke to finding the body, at 9 a.m. on the 21st June, floating close to the shipyard. A piece of string was in the mouth.

Inspector Robertson said that the string was tied at the back of the neck and was hanging loosely down the back. He examined the body, but found no wounds or marks of violence. A woman subsequently reported that deceased had been missing since 2 p.m. the previous night, and that she had found the girl's boat on the foreshore at Saiwanho. She returned at 7 a.m. accompanied by deceased's mother, and in consequence of the statement the latter made, witness went with them to village boat 5507, and there in the stern he found a board with fresh blood upon it.

Lung Kan spoke to finding the blood-stained board, and to reporting the matter to the inspector at Shaukiwan. Cheung Man, father of the deceased, then spoke to identifying the body of his daughter, Sbek Kan, on the beach near the shipyard and again at the mortuary.

Lai Yui Ming said he was a priest, living at Causeway Bay. On the night in question he was walking to Shaukiwan, when he saw a boat row in towards the shore, and went towards it to engage it to take him to Shaukiwan, and when he got near he saw three men land from it, and run towards the road, leaving no one in the boat. He noticed the three men. The defendant was one of those three men. It was a bright moonlight night and he could see his face quite clearly. Witness picked out the defendant from among twelve others all dressed alike.

The case was adjourned until to-morrow.

THE UNITED ASBESTOS ORIENTAL AGENCY, LTD.

The ninth annual meeting of the United Asbestos Oriental Agency, Ltd., was held in the offices of the general managers, Messrs. Dodwell & Co., this afternoon. Mr. G. H. Medhurst presided, and the others present were Messrs. E. G. Parrott, J. M. D. Auld, W. H. Wickham, Thomas Skinner, J. W. C. Bonnar, and G. R. Edwards, secretary.

The Chairman said:—Gentlemen.—The report and accounts have been in your possession for some days, and, with your permission, we will take them as read. The figures we have been able to lay before you this year, while not being so good as those of last year, are, we consider, satisfactory. The falling off in receipts we attribute, not so much to the competition—although it has been very keen—as to the general depression in trade that has existed during the year under review. You will notice from the profit and loss account that the expenditure is some $1,800 less than last year; this would have been considerably further reduced but for the travelling expenses of our superintendents, who have visited Manila, Singapore, Shanghai and Japan with a view to extending our business. The stock of material on hand has been very carefully examined and checked, and due provision made for goods that show any signs of deterioration. Since the close of the Company's financial year, we have opened a branch in Singapore. Before taking this step we made very careful inquiries regarding the amount of business we were likely to obtain, and were satisfied from the reports of our superintendent and agents there it would be advantageous to establish the Company at that port. Before proposing the adoption of the report and accounts, I shall be pleased to answer any questions shareholders desire to ask.

No questions were asked.

The Chairman accordingly moved the adoption of the report and accounts.

Mr. Wickham seconded.

The motion was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Bonnar moved the re-election of Mr. G. H. Medhurst as auditor of the Company.

Mr. Skinner seconded, and the motion was unanimously adopted.

This was all the business.

RAUB GOLD MINING CO.

ANNUAL REPORT.

The balance sheet and accounts of this Company to Mar. 31, (Singapore accounts to Feb. 28) have now been issued to shareholders. The profit and loss account is in brief:—

Balance forward £ 4,029 6 501 oz. of gold
Brisbane charges 587 from 40,158 tons
Raub and Singapore 24,045 after paying Electrical upkeep 3,388 royalty &c. £28,872
Amounts written off 3,566 Balance 8,745

£37,617 £37,617

The Directors regret that mining operations have not shown a more successful result. Mr. C. G. Warford Lock resigned, but is responsible for the annual report, and has been succeeded by Mr. W. H. Martin, M.I.M.E.

The chief points of interest to the public in the lengthy annual report are as follows:—

In submitting this Annual Report upon your mining and milling operations, the third since matters came under my direction, I cannot disguise a feeling that we have deserved better luck than has fallen to us. That there has been no slackening off in our efforts to reduce working expenses is abundantly shown in the cost-sheets, and, while these have already been brought below the minimum I originally predicted, and quite eclipse everything but the great Alaskan Mines, further economies are in course of being introduced. That our progress has been slow, I admit. That it has taken us three years to re-model and rebuild this enterprise, and that we have not yet finished our task, may seem blameworthy to those who do not know the Far East; but, the fact that we have reduced working expenses to nearly one-fourth of what they were, is a record that will take a lot of beating.

There is, however, another side to the picture. As fast as we have cut down expenses, the grade of the ore has fallen off. Indeed, the latter has been rather more rapid than the former, and for a few months it actually caught us up, and left a deficit. We had scarcely entered on the year, when our returns began diminishing, and, though there were transient improvements, the general tendency has been downwards, with a decided impoverishment in depth. To what extent this last feature may continue, will only be known as still greater depth is reached—it may be only local, or it may be persistent. Had the previous year's average of 5 dwts. been maintained, we should have earned a handsome profit. As it is, we have only just kept our heads above water. So long as this can be done, there is room for hope, and that it can be done, especially when the tailings' treatment shall help to swell the revenue, I have not the smallest doubt. Meanwhile, we can only patiently await future developments, and economise. At any rate, there is a large amount of surface and shallow ground which can be profitably worked.

Labour.—On this head there is the usual satisfactory report to make—plentiful, healthy, thriving, industrious and contented. Doubtless the district is popular with the Chinese, but rational handling of the coolies has much more to do with the good work we get out of them than any other cause or combination of causes, each in his special class of labour being wonderfully cheap, and efficient when well looked after.

Timber and Firewood.—We still have abundant supplies of both the hard and soft building woods, mine poles and slabs, and firewood, within the limits of the concession. Our average monthly consumption of mine timber costs us $500, and we have lately been using four or five times that amount for new construction work. Our firewood bill has been reduced from over $5,000 a month to between $250 and $300, since the extended application of electric power; and it will be further curtailed when our new plant is finished.

Power.—What has already been said under "Firewood" is of itself sufficient to emphasise the value of our water power and electric transmission plant at Sempam. Indeed, but for its existence, I have no doubt whatever that the Raub mine would have followed Silencing, Pajum, and the rest long ago. Just as it is a lasting monument to the foresight and enterprise of your first Manager—remaining, as it does, the only installation of the kind in the whole of the Peninsula—so it is to the continued discredit of the Government that our rights to a supply of water unmixed with tailings should be consistently ignored. Volumes of protest have been written from this office, and a pretence of helping us has been made by a clause as to river fouling in the new Mining Enactment, but this clause is a farce, and has not been enforced; in fact, as with most enactments, there is a Commission sitting to discuss its repeal, and meantime the Sempam river continues to be nothing more or less than a tailrace for the alluvial tin miners. Hence an abnormal wear and tear of our plant, an inflated pay roll for digging gravel out of our settling pits, and a constant menace of demolition of the station, as occurred in 1902.

The average monthly cost of generating and transmitting electric current, including salaries, wages, and stores, but not depreciation, has been about $1,300. The effective horse-power actually increased during the year from 100 h.p. to 200 h.p., and soon there will be a further 50 h.p. in use. At 2.0 h.p. the cost per h.p. per month works out at about 80¢, or 87¢ per h.p. per annum, which is much the same as the lowest figures in Europe.

New Main Shaft (Bukit Koman). It is unnecessary to remind you that the New Main Shaft scheme arose from three considerations. The first and foremost was that, having reduced our running expenses to an exceptionally low figure, we were able to extract at a profit such low-grade stone that there seemed every prospect of a long future for the mine, and the likelihood of much deeper working.

The second was that insurmountable conditions had already proved the existing main shaft to be incapable of extension to such depths. The third was the desire on the part of the Government to test whether payable gold could be found at depths much exceeding those in which all previous gold mining in the country had invariably ceased. It was the last-named circumstance that led to the Pahang Government contributing to the cost, and stipulating that the shaft should be sunk to 1,500 ft.

The location of the new shaft had to be adapted to three paramount conditions:—(a) solid ground to sink in and build on; (b) accessibility to all lodes; (c) facility for automatic conveyance of ore to mill. Hence the site chosen. But this site, being necessarily off the line of our present principal lode, is less convenient than the old shaft for that lode alone as shallow depths. Therefore, when it began to look as if even at 440 ft. we were going to encounter little or no payable stone, there was only one rational course to be taken, viz:—To suspend outlay on the new shaft until everything possible had been done with the old, or till circumstances warranted its resumption. That course I have taken, and for no other would I be responsible. The new shaft can wait for years, if necessary, without any detriment whatever, and the work can be taken up again, and pushed ahead in development of the original programme whenever it shall seem to your responsible officers that it is expedient. To this the Government should gladly accede, for it must surely be obvious that no mining company is going to sink a shaft to 1,500 ft. single-handed. To most people, 100 ft. at a time, and the mine developed from that, would seem more business-like.

Plant and Machinery.—The installation of new plant and machinery has again made great inroads on our capital, principally in connection with the extension of electric motive power, and the cyanidation of our tailings.

At Sempam, we are adding a new turbine and generator capable of delivering 300 h.p. at the mine. This will be quite an up-to-date machine, and will be provided with the most approved automatic control, by which we hope to secure more even running, with a reduction of labour. The addition to the building and the necessary foundations to accommodate this machinery are complete, and the plant itself is all on the ground and in course of erection. At Bukit Koman, the new electric hoist arrived here on the 17th inst., and it was July before the deficiencies were made good.

The electrically-driven Cornish pump—the first and only one of its kind in the whole world—was put to work in July, and has run beautifully without a moment's stop ever since. It is a most successful installation, and its economy is remarkable, saving at least $1,000 a month in fuel.

To enable ore-raising to be confined within certain hours, and thus admit of all the other work of the mine being done through the one shaft, automatically-tipping skips have been substituted for the old cage and truck system. While making the other changes, we carried the electric cable down the shaft, and so have continuous and abundant light at all stations.

A small electric motor and friction-gear-driven (the latter obtained from a shaft which we no longer need to use) were erected on the north side of Koman hill, for cheaply hauling timber, &c., to the New Main Shaft.

BOUNQUET'S BOYISHING BREAK.

AND HOW TO GET IT.

BY F. A. YALE.

I have never seen an explanation in any paper or book which would enable a bowler to obtain an off-break with an apparent leg-break delivery. On the other hand, I have seen it stated in papers of high standing in London that English cricketers do not understand how the break is obtained.

This certainly should not be so. There is no break within the capacity of any spinning ball that I would not guarantee to reproduce. Certainly it might be less skillfully done than many other men could do it, but it would be done at least sufficiently well to demonstrate the fact that the ball was obeying the mind and fingers that controlled it.

It is an axiom with anyone who has even superficially studied twelve or break that a ball must curl or break the way it is spinning, taking the manner of revolution in all cases, of course, from the last point of contact with the fingers.

NEWS EGGS FOR COLUMBUS.

When once this point is thoroughly grasped it seems to me to make the explanation of off-break with apparent leg-break delivery so abundantly clear that it is a matter for surprise that with all our wealth of cricketers writers it has remained unexplained so long.

The batsman can see clearly that the ball is not a common off-break, yet it comes in from the off. There can be but one explanation. The break is produced by a modification of pure overspin, and not in the slightest degree by cross-spin, such as is used for leg or off-break.

Suppose a person took a tin plate with a rubber edge, and threw it down the pitch spinning away from him, and lying over at an angle of 45 degrees. That plate will strike all it can to stay in the plane or line of flight in which it falls, especially as long as the spin lasts.

Let us imagine that it pitches on the off stump, still, mark you, spinning forward, and lying over at an angle of, say, 45 degrees. Do you think that the moment that plate's rubber edge grips the grass the plate will right itself to a vertical position and rebound forward straight from wicket to wicket, as it would were it pure overspin?

A QUESTION OF ANGLES.

Certainly it will not; as it pitches on the off-wicket at an angle of 45 degrees, so it will rebound at the same, or approximately the same, angle, so that the effect is that the overspin carries it across from the off-wicket to the leg, and thus is produced this valuable and puzzling break.

The plate here represents merely the plane of spin or that imaginary wall which theoretically bisects the spinning ball all the time it is progressing down it. It must, of course, be remembered that a cricket ball, being spherical and heavy, would neither swoop so much as a plate, nor probably rebound so accurately in the angle of spin in which it was before it struck the ground, but the effect is just the same. The plate is there down the middle of the ball. The mere fact that it has flat cheeks only affects the question of degree, and does not in any way alter the laws of break.

I want to make it very clear that this break cannot be obtained by the ordinary cross-spin. It must be a modification of overspin. Overspin is a spin which spins as though it were a hoop going through the air, instead of on the ground, from the bowler to the batsman. Here the hoop is the plane of spin, but this is pure overspin. This will not give you the break, but make your hoop lie over on its side as it goes through the air, and you will have conquered the mysterious break.

THE BEAUTY OF DECEPTION.

The beauty of this delivery is that for all that anyone but the keenest of batsmen can see, it may be cross-spin, which, of course, would give you the leg-break. You may have bowled for an off-break with leg action, but your plane of spin was too upright. It goes down, as an unexpected straight ball, and particularly if against the wind, on account of its overspin, dives suddenly at the end of its flight, a deadly yorker, or it makes you hit it a foot further forward than you reckoned on.

Peradventure you get the right angle of overspin, and it pitches on the off-stump. The batsman knows it—a leg-break pitched narrow, and he proceeds to deal with it accordingly, when it whips back and takes his leg-stump.

The possibilities of overspin for producing break and swerve are, I am convinced, not yet fully realised by English cricketers. So that there may be no doubt about the value of this delivery, I will here set down those balls which may apparently all come from it. Only the keenest of batsmen can possibly tell which is coming down, and, as a matter of fact, so near are the angles of the plane of spin which produce this break, to overspin, that frequently the bowler himself doesn't know which he has got on—pure overspin, which would be a straight bound, or overspin at an angle of, say, 50 degrees, which would produce an off-break with apparent leg-break delivery.

UNEXPECTED POSSIBILITIES.

From apparently the same delivery which conceals this break may come:

1. Simple leg-break.
2. A straight ball with pure overspin which, especially against a wind, dives suddenly and deceptively at the end of its flight.
3. Off-break with apparent leg-break delivery.
4. Provided the spin is sufficient, and there is enough wind, a dangerous swerve from the leg.

It must be remembered that as off-break with apparent leg-break delivery is used, it stands so reason that leg-break with apparent off-break delivery is "on." This break has all the properties and puzzling peculiarities of its well-known relation, but naturally, of course, reversed.

These breaks are of as much importance to cricketers as the American services to lawn tennis, and when once cricketers fully realise their value I have every hope that they will give the game very materially. Another, and by no means inconsiderable, virtue of this ball possesses, is that naturally its break is frequently straight between the wickets, and then it is a case of who gets tangled with it.

HEAT AND HEALTH.

BY A PHYSICIAN.

And this introduces a matter around which controversy rages. According to the idea that thirst and hunger are not provided as evidence in favour of philosophic hedonism, but are symptoms of bodily needs, and are normally proportioned thereto, I incline to the view that when a man is thirsty he should drink, and that if he likes his liquid very cold he may have it so. Not so many years ago, when medicine was yet in process of emergence from superstition, we used most cruelly and foolishly to deny water to febrile patients. Not infrequently they helped themselves when the nurse was not looking, whereupon the nurse got a wiggling, and the patient was then made for recovery. One day, I suppose, some bright spirit put two and two together, took his courage in both hands, and "knowing that Nature never did betray the heart that trusted her" (if I may alter one word of a masterpiece) inaugurated the present rational treatment of thirst in fever. Now, if it is right and beneficial to relieve the thirst of a febrile patient, I cannot believe that it is wrong to relieve the thirst attendant upon the body's effort to keep its temperature down when the sun is in its strength. Children are constantly told that it is dangerous to take cold water when they are hot, but I have not yet met any statistical proof of that assertion. This, however, may be noted, that it is not well to do anything which suddenly arrests the process of perspiring. Hence the short dip in cold water is legitimate and salutary when one is hot, but a longer stay is dangerous, obviously because of the extreme rapidity with which heat can be abstracted from a flushed skin.

But if the reader prefers to carry away one urgent counsel from all these words let it be this: in hot weather, if not always, treat the indications of your appetite or hunger-sense as you do those of any other; and if your appetite is smaller do not too hastily assume that your body is irrationally constructed, for neither the theory of Creation nor that of Evolution, will countenance you in such a conclusion.
